TOULL AR SONER

Douarnenez, France, 2011

*Address: 12 Chemin de Pors Ar Soner, Douarnenez, France
Area: 510 m². Client: SCI Toull Ar Soner
Cost: not disclosed. Collaboration: KRT (Claudia Urvois)*

The architect made use of “transparency, mirrors, and camouflage” in order to integrate this house into its seashore site while maximizing views of the bay of Douarnenez. The design is made up of a glass pavilion placed on top of a partially buried stone base. The base contains the private areas as well as technical spaces. Seen from the entrance, the glass pavilion seems to sit directly on the earth. It contains a large living area, and a “wooden box” containing the kitchen. Slate is used both in the living area and on the terrace, emphasizing the continuity between exterior and interior. Tania and Claudia Urvois collaborated on the interior design. White surfaces and wood are used in the lower block, while glass, slate, and metal are the main materials in the upper section of the house. The landscaping was done by Erwan Tymen.
